

From our base in the Gipping Valley, Suffolk, we provide our comprehensive range of Occupational Health and Wellbeing services throughout the Eastern Counties; from Suffolk to Northants and from Lincolnshire to London. When our customers require it, our reach stretches out across the UK too.

The protection of your workforce's health is tremendously beneficial to their wellbeing and productivity, which in turn brings real benefits to your organisation and an excellent return on your investment in them.

You can be assured that our experience and knowledge contribute greatly to the high level of service we deliver. We offer a flexible approach, which meets your needs, from both retained contract and pay as you go services, coupled with all necessary due diligence concerning matters of confidentiality and data protection.

Additionally we ensure professional standards are maintained, demonstrating a consistent high level of competence to practise and operate. Our commitment to training and development is unrivalled which means our clinical staff are truly multi skilled and expert at what they do. Furthermore our clinical leadership and support is of the highest quality which all adds up to providing our customers with the best possible outcomes.

For the greatest convenience our services are predominantly delivered at our customers' sites utilising a suitable office or meeting room however, when these are unavailable, our fully equipped Occupational Health mobile unit offers the perfect facility to provide our comprehensive range of services on site, including hearing tests.

Whatever the size or location of your organisation, use of the mobile unit provides a flexible solution to accessing necessary Occupational Health, with minimum disruption to the working days and productivity of employees, saving both time and money.

When you have people to be seen urgently, before our next scheduled visit to your site, our regular clinics at Needham Market, Ipswich and Bury St Edmunds provide the ideal facilities for solving that problem too.
